

Abstract

Materials that are useful for absorption enhanced reforming (AER) of a fuel, including absorbent materials and catalyst materials. The materials can be fabricated by spray processing. The use of the materials in AER can produce a H₂ product gas 5 having a high H₂ content and a low level of carbon oxides.